

TIBETAN UPRISING DAY

On 10th March 1959, Tibetans in Lhasa held huge protests against the Chinese invasion of their country.

In the ensuing 66 years, the human rights situation for Tibetans in their homeland has deteriorated.

Tibetans suffer widespread discrimination, including forced relocations from their lands, destruction of their monasteries, and severe punishments for speaking out.

Tibetans worldwide commemorate Tibetan Uprising Day to show that they will never give up their struggle for freedom.
